COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to provide an overview and an introduction to the subfield of Criminology within the larger field of Sociology. This course is designed to enhance students' understanding of the theories, concepts, and special topics within the criminological field. This course will uncover the issues involved with criminal law, crime rates, explanations of criminal behavior, criminal careers, police, judicial courts and prisons. The course's goals are to stimulate awareness of the theories and issues within Sociological Criminology to inspire critical thinking within the student on everyday criminal justice issues.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the end of the semester, students should be able to:

- Explore theories of crime causation and apply them to everyday situations.
- Explain concepts of crime, law, and criminology.
- Develop an understanding of crime typologies and how these might impact them.
- Explore issues related to crime and punishment.
- Reflect on the content and anticipate crimes that may impact them in the future.

EXPECTATIONS OF STUDENTS ENROLLED

- When emailing the instructor, or any other instructor, students are expected to utilize professional etiquette.
- Students are required to complete assigned readings and be prepared for assignments due as the semester progresses.
- Students are expected to be able to explain the readings in their own words and apply readings to real world situations.
- Students are responsible for checking their grades regularly and for checking email from the instructor or from their Buddies in the class.
- Students are expected to notify the professor of any discrepancies in the grade book as well as when they think they might be missing class. It is strongly advised to notify the professor of any discrepancies ASAP.

STUDENT CONDUCT

CLASSROOM CIVILITY, RESPECT AND TOLERANCE

Students should be made aware that part of the value of a university education is exposure to a wide range of different ideas, viewpoints, and types of people from various backgrounds. Many criminological courses involve content that might challenge deeply held beliefs of some students. As difficult as this may be, students are expected to be respectful during all classroom sessions and discussions. The instructor will not allow incivilities or intolerance during class sessions. Students are expected to treat one another with respect. Students should understand that class sessions are venues where they can express a diversity of viewpoints, and that those viewpoints must be expressed respectfully and involve no personal attacks. Students may challenge the views of others, but they must do so respectfully, present their arguments following scientific resources that rely on research, and have evidence supporting their view compared to evidence supporting other views. Any student that violates classroom civility will be asked to leave the session and will not receive a grade for that day if need be.

CLASS PARTICIPATION/ATTENDANCE

Attendance and participation in this course are crucial for passing; all class sessions will entail vital information on the assigned readings for the week. Exam questions will come from a mixture of lectures, texts assigned, and discussions from class sessions. Students are strongly urged to attend all class meetings and participate in discussions. Information not included in the textbook will be added to the lecture and students will be expected to add information on PowerPoint slides to their notes. Power Point slides are usually provided to students at the beginning of each week via Blackboard. Students may print them out if they choose to. Important information about the course as well as changes/updates will be addressed throughout the course during the designated meeting times. Students are not email the professor about missed class information: students are to email “Buddies” about getting information/class notes on class sessions missed.

COURSE COMMUNICATION

Students can communicate with the instructor in the following ways:

- Office Hours: Office hours are for student questions and comments about the course. For this course, Office hours are virtual/in-person. Students can request a virtual/in-person meeting via the Bookings or Calendly links above.
- Email: UTEP e-mail is the best way to contact the instructor for this course. The instructor for this course will respond to e-mails within at least 48 hours of receipt. When e-mailing the instructor, students must be sure to email from their UTEP student e-mail accounts. Please put the course number in the subject line. The body of e-mails sent to the instructor should clearly state questions or concerns. Students must be sure to put their first and last name, and university identification number.
- Announcements: Students must check the Blackboard announcements frequently for any updates, deadlines, or other important messages.

METHOD OF COURSE EVALUATION

Exams

Exams for this class are designed to assess the student’s knowledge of criminological topics. Exams will be made up of a combination of multiple-choice questions and true/false questions that are designed to determine the students’ understanding of the courses’ lectures, readings, guest lectures, and class discussions. Exams are not cumulative.

Application Assignments

Application assignments are meant to challenge students to work with the materials that have been assigned for the week. These assignments require students to critically think about a particular topic during a specific week and for students to complete the assignment via write a brief response (No more than a paragraph, even less depending on the prompt), create critical thinking discussion questions, work in groups to come to a conclusion about a topic, etc. Students must respond to all questions in the assignment.

For written responses: paragraphs written by students should begin with a topic sentence and follow with supporting statements. It is important to keep paragraphs clear and concise, and that students choose at least one example that helps to make their point. Topic sentences should be very clear that this sentence is what this paragraph is about. Supporting sentences that follow should be related to the topic sentence. Topic sentences are main points that students are trying to make. If a new topic sentence is required, a new paragraph needs to begin.

Paragraphs should include citations if needed. Assessment will be based on the above criteria. Group work may be part of this assignment when necessary.

Group Research Project

Students will develop a research proposal (5-8 pages) in groups that has the following bullet points: a research question, a hypothesis, an introduction, literature review, and methods of research. A rubric for this assignment is available in Course Content on the course's Blackboard homepage. Groups are to develop this research proposal using lectures from the class, the textbook, and any supplemental readings provided. The instructor and students will have designated times to meet about this assignment as the semester progresses (at least once a month during class time).

Each group will submit an outline of this assignment via Blackboard midway through the course, as per the course calendar, so that feedback can be provided. This outline is part of their final grade. Progress toward a better draft is part of the assignment, but perfection is not.

What to do when students miss assignments: Students who miss an assignment must meet with the instructor about making up the test within 1 week. If the absence is anticipated, the student is strongly advised to email the instructor to make up the assignment as soon as possible. The student has 1 week to attempt to contact and make up the missed assignment if unexcused, otherwise the student will not be allowed to make up the exam and receive a C (70) for that assignment. If the absence is excused, the student is responsible for providing satisfactory evidence to the instructor to substantiate the reason for absence.

GRADING

All grades will be displayed online. Students will have access to their grades online and are strongly encouraged to follow their grades throughout the semester. Emails at the end of the semester from students who wish to “do something” about their grades is strongly discouraged. Please email the professor when an anomaly has been discovered as the semester progresses, not at the end of the semester: students have a ONE (1) week time span to email the professor to discuss the grade that has been compromised (for example, the grade was not imputed, or the grade was not calculated correctly). After the ONE (1) week period, the student will not be able to discuss grade changes with the professor. The instructor will not award grades in any other way besides the assignments for the course: please do not email the instructor about awarding points for the sake of getting a higher grade, or about extra credit opportunity at the end of the semester. If the student has a 69 average in the class, the instructor WILL NOT curve the grade to a passing one.

GRADE BREAKDOWN

Exams (40%): covers up to five chapters of textbook at a time. Not cumulative.

Applied Assignments (20%): Group Applied Assignments will require sign-in sheets.

Group Research Project (40%): Sign-in sheets required during class times.

Grading Scale- 0%-100%

90%-100% = A

80%-89% = B

70%-79% = C

60%-69% = D

0%-59% = F

Please DO NOT follow any other grade system.

UTEP EDGE

This course is designed with the UTEP Edge in mind. Students will engage in creative activities during each class that involve critical thinking, applying knowledge to new situations, and solving complex problems. Students will leave this course confident in their knowledge of criminology, with enhanced communication skills, leadership and teamwork experience, and a greater global awareness regarding the problem of criminal behavior and how it is responded to by individuals, groups, and the larger society.

TECH POLICY

This course is in-person, but most assignments will be turned in via the Internet through the Blackboard learning management system. Students must ensure that their UTEP e-mail account is working and that they have access to the Web and a stable web browser. Google Chrome and Mozilla Firefox are the best browsers for Blackboard; other browsers may cause complications. When having technical difficulties, students should update their browser, clear their cache, or try switching to another browser.

Students will need to have access to a computer/laptop and will need to download or update the following software: Microsoft Office, Adobe Acrobat Reader, Windows Media Player, QuickTime, and Java. Check that your computer hardware and software are up-to-date and able to access all parts of the course.

If students do not have word-processing software, they can download Word and other Microsoft Office programs (including Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook and more) for free via UTEP's Microsoft Office Portal. Click the following link for more information about Microsoft Office 365 and follow the instructions.

IMPORTANT: If students encounter technical difficulties, please contact the UTEP Help Desk as they are trained specifically in assisting with technological needs of students.

Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty is prohibited and is considered a violation of the UTEP Handbook of Operating Procedures. It includes, but is not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, and collusion. Cheating may involve copying from or providing information to another student, possessing unauthorized materials during a test, or falsifying research data on laboratory reports. Plagiarism occurs when someone intentionally or knowingly represents the words or ideas of another as ones' own. Collusion involves collaborating with another person to commit any academically dishonest act. Any act of academic dishonesty attempted by a UTEP student is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. All suspected violations of academic integrity at The University of Texas at El Paso must be reported to the Office of Student Conduct and Conflict Resolution (OSCCR) for possible disciplinary action. To learn more, please visit HOOP: Student Conduct and Discipline.

GUIDANCE ON ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Use of AI technologies or automated tools, particularly generative AI such as ChatGPT or DALL-E, is not allowed for assignments in this class. Each student is expected to use critical and creative thinking skills to complete tasks and not rely on computer-generated ideas. Any direct use of AI-generated materials submitted as your own work will be treated as plagiarism and reported to the Office of Student Conduct and Conflict Resolution (OSCCR).

THE “BUDDY LIST” SYSTEM

This course requires that every student find at least three (3) students (preferably students with whom they are not familiar) to add to their “Buddy List” by the first week of class. The “Buddy List” is designed to help students help themselves if/when they have missed class. This system is not designed to help students skip class altogether. Students are to gather their new buddy’s name and preferred phone number/e-mail address below. The “Buddy List” system is designed to help students communicate with one another about retrieving information on missed class sessions. Students are expected to contact their “buddies” about missing class, sharing notes, and gathering information about the next class session. It is the student’s responsibility to get notes from class sessions missed and keep up with the course schedule. DO NOT email the professor about missed class notes. Students are allowed to have more than 3 buddies if they choose.
