Instructor Introduction

Professor Perry has a long-standing passion for the visual arts. She studied art history at the University of New Mexico, where she received her M. A. in Pre-Columbian art. She has taught a variety of art history courses and Art Appreciation at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and here at UTEP. She and her husband and daughter have lived in El Paso for many years.

Course Description

This survey lecture course, as a continuation of ARTH 1305, is designed to expose the student to major works of art in several parts of the world over a broad span of history from c. 1300 to the present. Our interests will turn to the artist, the creator of the work; style, the characteristics of a work peculiar to its time, culture, place, and creator; technique, or how the work was made; as well as iconography, or the study of meaning, symbolism and messages carried in a work of art. We will look at the visual arts – painting, sculpture, and architecture – in many different contexts: religious, political, economical, and social. The course demonstrates how the production of art and architecture is linked to climate and geography (the natural world) and governmental, religious, and philosophical systems (the social and cultural world). There are no prerequisites for enrollment, nor does the student need prior experience in an art history course to perform well in this class. Attendance at all class meetings, taking thorough lecture notes, and rigorous preparation for quizzes and exams are key strategies for success in this course.

Course Format

Course material will be presented in a lecture format, utilizing visual support in the form of digitized images. This is a technology- enhanced course: students will utilize the online environment, Blackboard, to access study sheets and the museum paper assignment, to review works for exams, and view announcements and other communications from the instructor.

Course Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course students will be able to:

1. Use artistic terminology and concepts as they apply to works of art
2. Identify and evaluate the role of the artist and art within societal and historical contexts
3. Categorically distinguish works of art within a historical or stylistic framework
4. Describe, analyze, and compare works of art in a written assignment
5. Employ enhanced communication and teamwork skills

Course Requirements

Exams (60% of course grade)

There will be three objective-type exams given in this course. All exams will include questions that require the student to refer to an image or pair of images, as well as questions that do not refer to slides. Tests may include slide identifications, multiple choice, true/false, fill in blanks or matching type questions that aim to assess each student's knowledge of lecture and textbook content. Dates for these exams appear in the following course calendar. Any changes for the first two exams will be announced in class. The third (final) exam for this course will be given during final exam week, on Wednesday, May 10th. Everyone will take the third exam that day. NO EXCEPTIONS. Each exam is worth 20% of your final grade.

Quizzes (20% of course grade)

Three quizzes will assess student engagement and comprehension of lecture material and provide feedback that will help students gauge their strengths and weaknesses before they take each exam. All quizzes require the student to identify artworks (artist's last name, title of work, style era) and answer questions based upon lecture content. The dates of these quizzes appear in the course calendar; do not schedule appointments or other activities on these days.

MUSEUM PAPER (20% of course grade)

A museum paper will constitute the major writing assignment of this course. The museum paper assignment consists of two parts:

- 1) Groups of 3-5 students will collaboratively engage an assigned work of art in the El Paso Museum of Art. They will collectively assess an original painting on the basis of several assigned criteria, including style and content.
- 2) Then each student will independently write a 5- page interpretive paper in which they describe and analyze the same piece using relevant artistic vocabulary and comparison of art forms. The student is expected to write the paper in their own words, while utilizing the critical findings of their team, as well as information provided in lectures and the textbook.

The museum paper is not intended as a research assignment. Students may only reference class notes, the textbook and the label next to the painting with appropriate citations. No internet sources will be accepted other than the museum website. The object of this assignment is to develop analytical, critical and writing skills while enhancing competence in the areas of communication and teamwork. You will receive a subsequent handout on the assignment in the coming weeks. The paper is due in class on Wednesday, April 7th.

Blackboard

Blackboard is an online environment where you will access study sheets and the syllabus, review images for exams, receive messages from your instructor, and view announcements. To access Blackboard: Go to <https://my.utep.edu> and log in.

Your login is your e-mail id and your password is your e-mail password. If you do not have an id and password, call the Helpdesk at 747-5257. You MUST have a UTEP email ID to access Blackboard. Once you are in the My.Utep space, you can find the link to Blackboard near the top of the webpage. Click on the BLACKBOARD link. All of your courses will appear on the Blackboard homepage. Click on ours to enter. Use the menu to access your syllabus, content (image reviews, exam study sheets), etc. To locate computer labs on campus check at: <http://admin.utep.edu/default.aspx?tabid=58049>

Grading Standards and Criteria

Evaluation of student performance for this course is done in the following manner: all grades are calculated using percentages and converted into letter grades according to the following scale:

90% & above	= A	- excellent work
80% & below 90%	= B	- above average work
70% & below 80%	= C	- average work
60% & below 70%	= D	- below average work; not passing
Below 60%	= F	- unsatisfactory work; not passing

IMPORTANT NOTE: ARTH 1306 is a core class. Students must earn a final average of at least 70 to pass this class. I do not offer extra credit. See me (bring your lecture notes) during office hours---WELL BEFORE THE SEMESTER ENDS--- if your performance on exams/quizzes is below average.

Course Policies

Attendance Policy: A substantial portion of the material presented in lectures is not duplicated in your text, therefore your presence and full attention is required at every class meeting. Attendance will be taken at my discretion. An attendance sheet will circulate throughout the classroom. Make sure that you sign it.

More than 2 absences will result in the student's final grade being lowered by 5 percentage points. All students are required to attend class on time and to remain in class the entire time. Students who arrive late or leave early or do not appear to be actively engaged in the lecture will be recorded as absent. Students who cannot commit to consistent, punctual and active attendance should take the class at another time.

Information missed during an absence is the sole responsibility of the student. Ask a fellow classmate about the material you missed and borrow their lecture notes.

Classroom Etiquette:

Cell phone use, including text messaging, is not allowed in this class. Use of laptops during class time is prohibited. You may record the lectures.

Food and beverages are not allowed in this classroom. Do not bring these items with you to class.

All students are required to take notes during the lecture. Persistent disruptive behavior, including cell phone use, text messaging, eating or drinking, chatting with others during the lecture, as well as arriving late or leaving early, are unacceptable behaviors, and may result in disciplinary action conducted through the Office of Student Conduct and Conflict Resolution.

Exam/Quiz Etiquette:

Students are required to be in their seats during the exam or quiz, with phones and all other devices switched off. Study materials must be placed in backpacks. There will be no talking or communication of any kind between students for any reason. Providing answers for a classmate or seeking help from another student, especially by looking at their exam answers, is cheating. Academic dishonesty hurts all of us, and it will not be tolerated in this class. If you are observed to be cheating on a quiz or exam, you will receive a zero for that assignment and you will be subject to disciplinary action through the Office of Student Life as per UTEP catalog policy.

Refer to <http://www.utep.edu/dos/acadintg.htm> for further information.

Policy for Make-up Exams/Quizzes

Make-up exams/quizzes are only granted when in accordance with the criteria stated below and by arrangement and approval of the instructor. Makeups for the first two exams and quizzes will be given during the instructor's office hours; they may or may not follow the format used for regularly scheduled exams. No makeups will be given for the final exam. No exceptions.

A student making a request for a makeup exam or quiz must meet one of the following criteria:

Student missed exam/quiz due to his/her serious illness. The makeup request must be accompanied by a doctor's note.

Routine doctor and dentist appointments are not excused.

Student is absent due to a death in the immediate family.

Email Etiquette:

The following are NOT appropriate reasons for communicating with the instructor by email:

- To request extra credit or to negotiate final grade changes
- To find out what you missed during an absence. Phone/email/text a classmate and borrow lecture notes when you return to class.
- To ask which chapters will be covered on exams, exam dates, etc. This information is included in your syllabus and is announced in class.

Incompletes, Withdrawals, Pass/Fail Policies

Incompletes or I grades will be considered for students completing satisfactory or better work and having serious legitimate situations beyond their control requiring additional time to complete the course requirements. All I grades are given at the discretion of the instructor and the approval of the Department chair. Students hold the full responsibility for withdrawing from this course if that procedure is elected. Withdrawals must be completed on or before the final date to drop a course with a W. Students missing this deadline will be issued a grade for their performance in the course. Art 1300 is a grade-based course and is not available for audit or pass/fail options.

PLAGIARISM/ACADEMIC DISHONESTY STATEMENT

Cheating/Plagiarism: Cheating is unethical and not acceptable. Plagiarism is using information or original wording in a paper without giving credit to the source of that information or wording: it is also not acceptable. Do not submit work under your name that you did not do yourself. You may not submit work for this class that you did for another class. If you are found to be cheating or plagiarizing, you will be subject to disciplinary action, per UTEP catalog policy. Refer to <http://www.utep.edu/dos/acadintg.htm> for further information.

DISABILITIES STATEMENT

If you have a disability and need classroom accommodations, please contact The Center for Accommodations and Support Services (CASS) at 747-5148, or by email to cass@utep.edu, or visit their office located in UTEP Union East, Room 106. For additional information, please visit the CASS website at www.sa.utep.edu/cass. I cannot provide accommodations for a student if I have not received official notice from CASS documenting the student's eligibility and requirements. Each student registered with CASS needs to speak with me about their accommodations in the classroom (and testing procedures on examination days) at the beginning of the semester or as soon as they are registered with CASS.

ARTH 1306 – TAKING NOTES

Taking very thorough notes on the material presented in lectures is crucial to your successful performance in this course. Record information that I provide about each work that you are responsible for (keep your list of required works handy during each and every lecture). Get the name of the artwork, the artist's name, and the style period, and perhaps a quick sketch of the image, sculpture or building. If any special terminology is introduced during my discussion of the artwork, make sure you get both term and definition recorded. Note how the term specifically relates to the artwork: is it the medium in which the piece was made (for example buon fresco or engraving)? Is the artwork an example of a specific type of object that the term names (example: Duccio's Maestà is a polyptych---an altarpiece containing many panels)? Often the patron or individual who commissioned the artwork will be discussed, as well as its original location and function; this information is important too, as it helps us reconstruct the original context in which the piece was created. We couldn't possibly understand the Italian Renaissance without knowing the details of the powerful Medici family in Florence, Italy, and the incredible impact of this family upon Renaissance art.

Art historians are not only concerned with the history of a single work of art, but also with tracing the history of style and technology. When I discuss the specific features of a particular style, such as Baroque, Rococo, Impressionism or Expressionism, be sure to record those features in your lecture notes. Note too the characteristics of art movements, in which artworks may look quite different but are concerned with similar subjects, etc. If I speak at length about technical innovations, such as chiaroscuro and linear perspective during the Early Renaissance in Italy, or the Pointillist painting technique of the Post-Impressionist artist, Georges Seurat, get this information in your notes!

Iconography is a particular concern of art historians, who document specific themes, subjects and symbols that we refer to as the content of a work of art. It might surprise you to learn that the artist begins with an idea or concept, and the formal, physical properties of a piece come next. Studying various themes and subjects and charting change in their formal representation through time gives us insight into the subtleties of cultural and individual beliefs. Pay careful attention to our class discussions of symbols and their meaning in specific works of art; I often point out particular symbols that I would like you to know.

Complex questions on exams will test your knowledge of specific works that we discuss in depth during lectures. The more thorough your notes, the better.

If you find the multi-tasking required of you (looking, listening, writing) to be overwhelming, record the lectures with your phone or a small digital recording device placed on the podium at the beginning of the lecture.

You must be able to identify each work listed by artist's name, title of the work, and style period, and answer questions about it based upon lecture content. Learn all terms. Know location if underlined.
