LABS 5306/SOCI 5341/MAIS 5360 Spring 2020
COMPARATIVE REGIONS
Meeting Times & Location: T 6-8:50pm, Miners Hall 201
Instructor: Prof. Bilge O’Hearn (bohearn@utep.edu)
Office & Hours: Old Main 312, MW 10:30-11:30am or by appointment

COURSE DESCRIPTION
Regional integration and the search for greater unity are neither new nor uncontentious phenomena. Since the 1950s, the nation-states’ claim over territory, sovereignty and cultural unity are challenged by proponents of substate and supranational regions and regional integration as new forms of reorganizing economy, politics and society and providing a new sense of identity and belonging. Through theoretical and ethnographic readings, in this course, we will comparatively examine cases of region-formation from around the world. We will study different visions and mechanisms (trade, infrastructure, culture and so on) behind various region-building efforts. We will assess to what extent efforts in region-making accomplished greater unity in representing economic, political and cultural aspirations of its people and/or its architects.

LEARNING OUTCOMES
On the successful completion of the course you, the student will be able to:
▪ Develop scholarly lexicon on local, national and supranational region-making movements and projects
▪ Analytically discern different theoretical approaches to region-making, regionalism and regionalization from anthropology, history, sociology, and political sciences,
▪ Critically discuss scholarly texts,
▪ Develop critical skills in scholarly writing.

REQUIRED COURSE MATERIALS
We will read the following required books according to the reading schedule:

All of the above are available also at the UTEP Bookstore, but you are not obliged to acquire them through the Bookstore.

Other required readings may include articles and book chapters that are NOT found in any of the required texts; instead, these readings will be made available electronically on Blackboard. These electronic reserves are available to all students registered for this course as full text PDF files that may be downloaded and printed from our course page on Blackboard.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND ASSESSMENT

You will be assessed based on the following three (3) forms of assessment, which are weighted differently:

Participation and Discussion: Graduate-level seminars depend on class members’ active participation in class discussions. Each of you will be assigned two weeks’ readings. You will do a brief introduction to the assigned reading, emphasizing the main points/take-aways and prepare 2-3 critical questions for class discussion. You will also facilitate class debate on the reading you are assigned, guided by your discussion questions. It is therefore very important that other class members have enough time to process your questions. Your discussion questions, along with a paragraph of your review of the assigned reading, need to be posted on Blackboard by 3pm on the day of our class. As always, your overall satisfaction with this class depends highly on your and your peers’ participation in class discussions. Please be ready to read and discuss! Please bring to class all your energy and dynamism and encourage others to do so. [10 points]

Discussion Papers (DPs): You will write ten (10) pieces of critical discussion papers, each for 1000 words, on books and sets of articles, which we will discuss in class. [5 points each, 50 points in total]. Please submit your DPs by 2pm in the afternoon via Blackboard on the day the reading is due. Late submissions will not be accepted.
Final Paper or Research Proposal: Due May 11, 2020 [40 points]

GRADING SCALE
The following grading scale will be used for all graded work in this course: A = 100-95% B = 94-85% C = 84-75% D = 74-65% F = 64% and below

POLICIES, INTEGRITY AND EXPECTATIONS
This course involves participation in discussions and activities. We each have different experiences that influence our perspectives of the world. The classroom should be a lively, interactive and comfortable place where information is shared ideas tested and issues debated. You are expected to treat your instructor and all other participants in the course with courtesy and respect. Your comments to others should be factual, constructive, and free from harassing statements. You are encouraged to disagree with other students, but such disagreements need to be based upon facts and documentation (rather than prejudices and personalities). Unprofessional or disrespectful conduct will result in a lower grade on an assignment since part of the learning process in this course is respectful engagement of ideas with others. You should expect the professor of the course to be prepared for each class, to treat each student with respect and compassion. Students will in turn come to each class prepared, complete assignments on time and will adhere to the university’s academic standards including those governing academic dishonesty including cheating, plagiarism, or fraud. The following link will provide further guidance on the University's student rules and policies:

Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact Disability Services.

Academic integrity Misconduct in research or scholarship includes cheating, fabrication, falsification, multiple submission, or plagiarism in proposing, performing, reviewing, or reporting research, as well as complicity in any or all of the above. Most serious breach of the said code is plagiarism [pley-juh-riz-uhm, -jee-uh-riz-], which is defined as “the appropriation of another person’s ideas, processes, results, or words without giving appropriate credit.” Plagiarism includes:
- Intentionally, knowingly, or carelessly presenting the work of another as one’s own (i.e., without crediting the author or creator).
- Failing to credit sources used in a work product in an attempt to pass off the work as one’s own.
- Attempting to receive credit for work performed by another, including papers obtained in whole or in part from individuals or other sources. Students are permitted to use the services of a tutor (paid or unpaid), a professional editor, or the University Writing Center to assist them in completing assigned work, unless the instructor explicitly prohibits such assistance. If the student uses such services, the resulting product must be the original work of the student. Purchasing research reports, essays, lab reports, practice sets, or answers to assignments from any person or business are strictly prohibited. Sale of such materials is a violation of both these rules and State law.

- Failing to cite the World Wide Web, databases and other electronic resources if they are utilized in any way as resource material in an academic exercise.
- Other similar acts.

Plagiarism and other acts of academic dishonesty are subject to punitive action. For more information please consult the handbook of Operating Procedures at https://www.utep.edu/vpba/hoop/section-2/student-conduct-and-discipline.html. IF YOU ARE UNSURE ABOUT ANY PART OF THE HANDBOOK, PLEASE COME SEE ME.

Professionalism, attendance and make up Attendance; timely completion of reading and written assignments; thoughtful contribution to class discussions, including participation in class exercises. The University views class attendance as the responsibility of the student; attendance is essential to complete the course successfully. Attendance in this class is generally mandatory, unless your absence is excused. University rules related to excused and unexcused absences can be found at http://catalog.utep.edu/undergrad/academic-regulations/curriculum-and-classroom-policies/. You are responsible for providing prior notification and accurate documentation for excused absences.

Use of Technology Technology is part of our lives and learning experience. You are thus permitted to use your laptop, phone, tablet etc. in class. However, please pay utmost attention not to distract yourself and others or disrupt our collective learning environment. If there is any complaint from your classmates or from myself regarding your excessive use of technology other than for course purposes, you will be asked to stop this behavior immediately.
