OVERVIEW AND GOALS OF THE CLASS

Everyone is different and such differences are often attributed to our personalities. But what is ‘personality’ exactly? How does it develop and change? This course will introduce you to the field of Personality Psychology and answer these and other questions. We will talk about theories of personality development, personality assessment, and genetic and cultural influences on personality. We will discuss the basic findings and concepts of the field and apply them to the lives of real people including ourselves.

The student will:

1. Discuss different theories of conceptualizing and defining personality
2. Recognize what variables influence personality and how personality influences behavior
3. Examine cultural differences and similarities in personality
4. Distinguish methods used in personality research and assessment
5. Apply acquired insight of personality to examining case studies and one’s own life

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Your grade for the course will be based on reading quizzes, exams, and a final project. All graded work will add up to 410 total points throughout the course. Your final grade will be the percentage of points you earn out of the total number of points possible.

Reading quizzes (160 points total):

- You will have 9 reading quizzes that you will complete through Blackboard. They will be open book/open note quizzes, which means you can refer to your textbook, the slides from class, and your notes when completing the quizzes. You MAY NOT use the internet to look up answers.
- Each quiz will be worth 20 points.
- At the end of the semester, I will drop your lowest quiz grade when calculating your final grade.

Exams (150 points total):

- You will have 3 exams that will occur in-person.
- Each exam will be worth 50 points.

Snoop Project (100 points total):

- At the end of the semester, you will complete a group assignment that applies what you learned from the Snoop book. In groups, you will evaluate several people's personality based on pictures of their room or personal space. You will have class time to complete the project.
- Your grade on the project will come from:
 - o Submission of pictures of your room/space (20 points)
 - o Group write up of evaluation (50 points)
 - o Peer evaluation (30 points)
- More details about the project will come later in the semester.

To calculate your grade, simply divide how many points you have earned with how many points are available to be earned to get your grade percentage. The following scale will be used to translate a grade percentage into a letter grade:

A = 90% and above

B = 80%-89%

C = 70%-79%

D = 60%-69%

F = 59% and below

Late Assignments: Reading quizzes will be accepted up to 24 hours after the deadline but will be penalized 10% of the total score (2 points will be taken off your score). Additionally, you'll be able to drop the lowest quiz grade, so if you miss one quiz, it will not affect your final grade. No extensions or make ups will be granted.

Make-up Exams: Since we will not have a cumulative final exam, if you miss an exam or are unhappy with one of your exam scores, then you can re-take (a version of) that exam during the time scheduled for the final exam. You can only take ONE make-up exam and the make-up must occur during our scheduled exam during finals' week. The make-up policy means that you cannot schedule your own exams (it must happen on make-up day) and you may only make-up ONE exam. If you would like to take a make-up exam, please notify me before May 6, 2022.

EXPECTATIONS

Attendance: This class will be a synchronous in-person class. You are expected to attend class and participate, including asking questions. I will not be grading your attendance, although typically students who attend class regularly do better than those who do not. For those who aren't able to attend class in person because of health or Covid related concerns, I will stream class via Zoom. However, in-person attendance is highly encouraged. I will attempt to record lectures but lecture recordings are not guaranteed.

Contact: I will primarily use Blackboard announcements and email to contact you. Please check your utep.edu email accounts regularly. If you have questions about the course or need to contact me for any reason, please either 1) see me before or after class, 2) visit my office hours, or 3) email me.

Teaching Associate: We will have a TA for the course. The TA will be responsible for grading assignments, and will be available for advice with regularly scheduled office hours. Contact information will be provided when available.

Diversity and Inclusion: I recognize that within the class we each bring forth our own experiences and perspectives from our lived experiences. I aim to create a learning community in which those diverse thoughts and experiences are valued. I aim to value and respect your unique identities (including race, gender, class, sexuality, religion, ability, etc.). If you feel comfortable sharing, please let me know what pronouns you use and/or if you have a name that differs from the official course record. I realize we are living in tumultuous times and there may be times when your life outside the class affects your performance within the class. I encourage you to be open with me about these situations so I can be a resource for you. I want each student to be successful in this class and will do my best to support you.
