

ESOL 1312: Research and Critical Writing for Speakers of English as a Second Language

CRN: 33818 / Semester/Year: Summer I 2020

Instructor: Judith Navarro
Virtual Office hours: MTR 11-12 or by appointment

Email: junava@utep.edu

Course description

Students in this class conduct reading, writing, and research activities that promote critical and analytical thinking by exploring specific issues or topics through genre-based assignments. Through these tasks, students improve their understanding of text genres, discourse communities, academic written discourse (including analysis, evaluation, and argumentation), as well as basic research procedures and college-level writing conventions. Major assignments include a genre analysis paper, a research proposal, a review of literature, a research project report, and video project presentation/poster.

Optional textbook

Ruszkiewicz, J.J., & Dolmage, J. (2015) How to write anything: A guide and reference with readings. 3rd Edition. Boston: Bedford/ St. Martins.

Objectives

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

- Understand the relationships that exist among genres, texts, writers, readers, and context.
Different genres, text types, and types of arguments are discussed and analyzed, individually and in groups, focusing on both implicit and explicit information, in order to conduct a rhetorical analysis of texts (audience, goals, claims, language, images, format, etc.).
- Analyze and evaluate arguments in various texts and compose argumentative/persuasive essays.
Academic texts and logical argumentation constitute the focus of the analyses, although some examples of non-academic arguments may also be used to illustrate the nature of argumentation across genres and discourse communities. Text and discourse features to be identified and used include claims, warrants, supporting information, and counterarguments.
- Collect, evaluate, and summarize information from various sources relevant to a particular topic.
In order to prepare a feasible research proposal, and to gain knowledge about the topic selected, students will read, summarize, and evaluate texts from various sources and will synthesize this information in a review paper (using APA citation style).
- Conduct a research project to explore specific aspects or issues related to a particular topic.
Research guiding questions will be investigated mainly through secondary sources (library research), although some primary data may be obtained (if feasible). Projects will be explored objectively and thoughtfully, and the resulting reports (written/oral) will be composed following academic conventions relevant to college writing.

Major course assignments and exams

The following is an overview of assignments for this course. Specific guidelines, instructions, and recommendations for each assignment will be provided in class and/or through Blackboard by the instructor.

- Genre analysis - Students will select a visual genre (on the same general topic) reflecting different genre characteristics and write a comparative essay focusing on rhetorical features.

- Literature review - Students will conduct secondary (library) research on a social, political, cultural, or ethical issue to become well-informed about the issue in question. Students will then write a literature review to summarize, evaluate, and synthesize the main arguments and ideas found in these sources.
- Research proposal - Students will write a research proposal that will focus on a specific aspect of the general topic investigated (see above). This may include the research question(s) to be explored, the thesis statement to guide the research, working outline or mapping of areas to be investigated or developed, annotated bibliography, etc.
- Research report – Students will develop a research project that includes a written report with a summary of the relevant literature and a thorough discussion of the main issues related to the topic selected. The report may include visual information, such as graphs, diagrams, or tables. Students may complement their report with other texts (e.g., mini-poster, brochure, video, pod-cast) in which different aspects of the topic may be highlighted and different purposes achieved (persuasion, quick information delivery, awareness-raising, etc.)
- Visual genre: Students will create a visual genre (poster/video) to share the information learned throughout the course of their research.
- In-class writing exam: This mid-term writing exam will consist of either a brief response to a prompt or a short reading (e.g., taking a position regarding the claims made in the text) or, alternatively, a summary/synthesis of two brief texts (using APA style).
- Homework and other assignments: In addition to the assignments described above, the course may include a variety of homework assignments and other writing tasks such as journal writing, brief analytical reports, quick in-progress reports, etc.

NOTE: Some modifications or adjustments may be made to the assignments described above according to the needs of students in each section.

Departmental writing exam: As part of the course assessment, students are required to take a departmental writing exam, which will take place during final exams week. The exam essay will focus on expository prose (argumentative or evaluative) and will be rated in relation to organization and development, text and paragraph structure, academic language usage, and grammar and mechanics.

Grading

The final course grade is calculated as follows:

Genre analysis:	10%	Grades are assigned on this scale:
Literature review:	15%	A 90-100%
Research Proposal & Paper:	20%	B 80-89%
Visual genre:	10%	C 70-79%
Homework/assignments	10%	D 60-69%
In-class writing exam:	10%	F 0-59%
Departmental writing exam:	25%

In order to pass the course, a grade of “C” or higher must be obtained. If a lower grade is obtained, the course must be re-taken.

COURSE POLICIES

Assignments

- It is necessary to submit all major assignments and take the course exams in order to obtain a passing grade. All assignments must be completed and turned in on the scheduled dates. No late work will not be accepted. Exams must be taken on scheduled dates. No make-up exams will be given. Exceptions to these rules may be considered only for properly documented medical emergencies (or similar extraordinary circumstances).
- All work must be edited and revised. Written assignments that do not conform to the specifications outlined by the instructor may receive a failing grade. Students are strongly encouraged to use the Writing Center in the library to revise/edit their work before submitting it.

Documentation styles

- Instructors will introduce students to in-text, parenthetical documentation early in the semester and require these documentation conventions throughout the course. Students will learn and use the American Psychological Association (APA) or Modern Language Association (MLA) documentation format and style.
- The most important words in a paper are the students’, not those found in sources consulted. Students should always strive to draw inferences from research material and weave into their papers their reaction and evaluation of source material.

Participation

- All online activities are designed to help students learn the material and acquire effective skills and strategies. Instructors may drop students if class performance shows a lack of effort.

Academic honesty

- Students are expected to adhere to and comply with standards of academic honesty. Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. All cases will be reported to the Dean of Students for administrative and/or academic sanctions, which may include expulsion. All work submitted must be original (created by each student for the class) and any information from external sources must be properly cited. Work from other courses may not be submitted for a grade. Forms of academic dishonesty include (but are not limited to): collusion—lending one’s work to another person to submit as his or her own; fabrication—deliberately creating false information on a works cited page, and plagiarism—the presentation of another person’s work as one’s own (i.e., copying parts of or whole papers off the Internet).
- Any type of cheating or plagiarism constitutes a violation of University policies and of the code of conduct to which all students must adhere. Violations are reported to the Dean of Students. See the website at <http://www.utep.edu/dos/acadintg.htm> for more information.
- As in any course, each student MUST do his/her own work. However, this does not rule out getting assistance or guidance from the class instructor or University tutors. It is important to differentiate between this type of help and non-acceptable types. Some examples of 'help' that is NOT acceptable include copying papers or parts of papers, copying on tests, using "cheat sheets," having someone else do one’s work, letting someone else change parts of one’s work, or using texts from a published source (magazine, book, or newspaper) without proper documentation.

Copyright and fair use

- The University of Texas at El Paso requires all members of its community to follow copyright and fair use requirements. Students are individually and solely responsible for violations of copyright and fair use laws. The University will neither protect nor defend students nor assume any responsibility for student violations of fair use laws. Violations of copyright laws could subject students to federal and state civil penalties and criminal liability, as well as disciplinary action under University policies.

Students who may require special accommodations

- Students who need special instructional accommodations due to a permanent or temporary disability are strongly encouraged to consult personnel in the Center for Accommodations and Support Services

(CASS), located in the East Union Building, room 106. Students with a documented sensory and/or learning disability may receive special accommodations according to University policies. It is the student's responsibility to contact the instructor after contacting the CASS to ensure provision of such accommodations.

ESOL SEQUENCE OF COURSES
