Course Description

This course is designed to provide the student with a general overview of past and present Mexican American culture and society. Using an interdisciplinary framework, this course examines Chicana/o Studies from the Chicana/o Movements of the early 1960s to the present. The course uses race, ethnicity, class, and gender as categories of analyses to interpret how and why ethnic Mexicans create distinct cultures and identities in the United States. The readings and videos explore a number of topics to include immigration, citizenship, education, labor, politics, and pop culture for a better understanding of how ethnic Mexicans negotiate, resist, and redefine their place in the U.S. Students will develop a number of skills to include critical thinking, reasoning, analysis, and maintaining a point of view, verbally and in writing. Additionally, this course will help students develop computer skills and electronic communication skills.

Student Learning Goals and Objectives

In this course students will:

Develop the critical thinking and analytical skills necessary for effective communication both orally and written.

Identify, analyze, and articulate the central themes in ethnic Mexican community and identity formation.

Identify and analyze differences and similarities among ethnic Mexican experiences over time.

Demonstrate an understanding of the concepts of gender, sexuality, race, and class by using them to identify experiences of privilege and inequality as well as collaboration and conflict, within and between ethnic Mexican communities.

Use an interdisciplinary approach to connect the past to the present in an effort to better understand the world around them and themselves as global citizens.

The guiding questions for this course are: What is Chicana/o Studies? What does it mean to be a Chicana/o? How have Chicana/os contributed to the story of the United States?

Be sure you have the appropriate word processing software because if I cannot open your documents, they WILL NOT be graded.

Course Policies and Procedures and Grading Rubric

I have provided a set of Course Policies and Procedures, and a Grading Rubric.
