DESCRIPTION

Global Women's Health will cover an overview of current health topics pertinent to women in the 21st century. The course will cover the basic politics and economics connected to women's health in the United States and globally. As we have been witnessing an influx of migration to the United States and European countries, it is essential to shed light on the health needs of this population. Millions of people from every corner of the globe leave their home country running away from life-threatening living conditions and many health risks. Through this course, we will look at the health issues facing recent immigrant women, their nutrition and mental health, and their access to health care services. Students in this course will examine this population's acculturation to and reception by host communities. Students will have the opportunity to research health issues among a group of people in a selected country to develop public health outreach materials in response to the needs of the selected population.

FORMAT: This course is designed to create a highly engaging online learning environment based on the following principles: empowerment, mutual learning, courtesy, compassion, motivation, trust, and respect. Every module will cover one of the course topics for the week. During the week, students will deepen and broaden their understanding of the topic through reading assignments, videos, discussion board, and written assignments.

This course is NOT self-paced. Instead, this course is based on weekly modules that open each Sunday at 12:00 noon and close the following Saturday at midnight (Mountain Standard Time). If students fail to submit any required work before the module closes, they will receive a grade of zero (0) for that assignment. There are no exceptions. Because this is an online course, it is common to get behind and, if you do, it may be difficult if not impossible to catch back up.

Again, once the modules close, there is no way to go back and submit work you failed to complete.

Students will be able to communicate with me to ask questions, share concerns, raise ideas, via email or phone, or one-to-one during my virtual office hours and by appointment. I will check my email twice daily, Monday through Friday. Please use webmail email for all communication (mkhatib@utep.edu). In the subject line of all emails, please include the course title with the CRN. I will respond within 24 hours to emails sent from Monday morning through Friday afternoon. During university holidays and weekends, I am not available via email. Email is the best way to reach me!

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon successful completion of this course students will be able to:

- Identify critical health issues affecting women globally;
- Interpret various types of health-related studies and statistical information
- Recognize some of the strategies and programs that non-governmental organizations are using to address women's health issues in other countries, mainly poorer countries;
- Articulate the ways gender, race, class, ability, religion, age, nationality, and sexuality intersect to impact the construction of identity, stereotypes, prejudice, discrimination, and privilege in contemporary societies (WGS), and
- Communicate effectively demonstrating a sense of responsibility, empowerment, and connection with women globally developing global awareness (UTEP Edge Advantages)

COURSE ASSESSMENT

- Documentary Review: 100 points
- Response Paper: 200 points (two; 100 points each)
- Discussion posts: 300 points (10 discussion posts; 30 each)
- Quizzes: 200 points (4 quizzes; 50 points each)
- Community Outreach: 100 points
- Final Project Report: 100 points

Documentary/Video Review:

Two videos will be provided for this assignment. You need to submit a well-written review based on the videos. Your review should be 300-500 words. Paper must be double spaced, properly referenced using APA style (where applicable), proofread, and page numbered. Use font size 12, Times New Roman or Ariel font style.

Documentary Review Elements:

- A. Give details of the documentary: title, intended audience, & purpose of the documentary/video;
- B. State your prior knowledge of the subject: did you anything about the subject before you watched the documentary/video, what did you expect to see, & what questions you had or do you still have; and
- C. Reflect: Did you like the material/content/ video quality, have you learned from it, which part of the documentary/video do you like the most, • Was there anything that surprised you? What are the drawbacks of the documentary? Would you recommend this documentary to your friends? Why?

Response Paper: Students need to submit two response papers. Each paper will be an academic and personal reaction to the question (s) based on a provided article or video. Response paper must be one page, single-spaced. Please use 1-inch margins on the top, bottom, and sides. The first word in every paragraph should be indented one half inch. Use Times New Roman, font size 12.

Discussion Posts: The discussions are directly related to the assigned readings. Upon completion of the assigned readings, you are expected to engage in an ongoing discussion/debate with your classmates. Your contribution to the discussion forums will be graded for quality and a detailed analysis linking the material to current similar issues, experience, or readings. In all cases, students must include in-text citations and provide a full bibliography/works cited at the end of their post for all references mentioned in the post utilizing APA (American Psychological Association) citation format. You must submit three posts per week: one initial post and two responses to different peers' initial posts (more detailed instructions for posts will be provided in the discussion forum prompt).

Quizzes:

You will have four quizzes. Every 3 to 4 weeks, you will take a quiz. Quizzes will consist of multiple-choice questions. Questions will be based on the readings. You will have more details provided in the quiz announcement.

Community Outreach:

For this assignment, you need to engage with your community and deepen your understanding of women's health and human rights in your society or local community. In your own town or region, locate a health organization that is working on one or more of the issues/ topics highlighted in this class. Interview people at the organization. You need to write a short report of 4-5 thoughtful paragraphs about the organization. Make sure to include the following in your report:

1. What is the name of the organization and the name of the people you interviewed?
2. What is the organization's mission or goal?
3. How does this organization carry out its work?
4. What is your sense of the effectiveness of this organization / group?
5. Include one or more images to illustrate the organization and its work.

Final Project Report:

Students should produce a four- page report based on their awareness/prevention campaign about a health policy/ disease affecting women's health locally, nationally, or internationally. It can be a health policy brief or a public health campaign. The intention of generating this report should be well organized and informative (like a factsheet). For both options, think about what one would prepare for a letter to teach and stimulate conversation with stakeholders. This is a chance for the student to practice effective public health communication through investigating their selected topic of interest more deeply and organizing materials in a way that would facilitate educating stakeholders and peers in class. The report should have a small bibliography with relevant articles and websites. Grade will be based on the quality of the report in terms of accuracy, references to peer-reviewed literature, comprehensiveness, objectivity, creativity/ visual aid and grammar/spelling. Report must be double spaced, font size 12, properly referenced using APA style (where applicable), proofread, and page numbered. Use Times New Roman or Ariel font style.

Written Assignments:

Turning in a bad paper for an F OR inadequate assignments are still far better than not turning it in and earning a zero. Examples of paper and discussion grading scales would be:

- "A" paper: well-written and organized, has a substantial and interesting thesis, demonstrates strong argumentation, is well backed by the proper use of evidence, gets facts right, and displays originality of thought and interpretation. An "A" is earned in discussion by demonstrating knowledge of the assigned materials and substantial thought about those materials, and by interacting productively on postings with the thoughts, ideas and questions of one's classmates.
- "B" paper: lacking in one or two of the qualities above: perhaps it is well-written and organized, displays originality of thought, and uses good evidence, but does not have very strong argumentation. A "B" is earned in discussion by demonstrating a good knowledge of the assigned materials, and by interacting productively with the ideas of one's classmates.
- "C" paper: fulfills the assigned task, but may have problems with writing and organization, or may be lacking in evidence. A "C" is earned in discussion by participating productively even while showing that one has not read or viewed assigned materials thoroughly.
- "D" paper: partially fulfills the assigned task, but has substantial problems, such as the lack of a thesis, or poor writing and organization. There may be an opportunity for re-writing the paper that earns a "D", if the paper is submitted prior to the final due date and at my discretion. A "D" is earned in discussion failing to post several required assignments or responding to peer comments.
- "F" paper: does not fulfill the assigned task. There may be an opportunity for re-writing a paper that earns an "F", if the paper is submitted prior to the final due date and at my discretion. Absence from discussion earns a grade of zero. An "F" in discussion is earned in failing to post most assignments timely or not responding to peer comments.

GRADING SCALE

Grades earned on each assignment/test will be added together to reflect the total number of points earned in the course. Below is the overall point scale for the course. The passing grade for this course is a D. Total Points possible for the term is 1000 points.

900-1000= A	700-799 = C	0-599 = F
800-899 = B	600-699 = D

CLASS AND UNIVERSITY POLICIES:

- Drop Policy

I do not automatically drop students even after missed major assignments. You must initiate the drop yourself.

Each semester has a drop date beyond which an instructor can no longer drop a student with a “W.” Students who fail to attend or fulfill assignments are the drop date must necessarily receive an “F.” If, however, an event of exceptional circumstances occurs and with the approval of the course instructor and the academic dean, a grade of “W” may be obtained. The student is responsible for supply written documentation to support the request for a “W.” Acceptable reasons for a “W” include: personal or family medical emergencies, death of family member, military leave, or an exceptional work schedule that prevents completion of the course.

BE MINDFUL OF COURSE DROP DATE!

Be aware, also, of the six-course drop limit. According to the Texas Education Code, “all first-year students enrolled for the first time at any Texas public college or university are limited to six drops during their academic career. This includes student and faculty initiated drops and courses dropped at other Texas public institutions. This policy does not apply to courses dropped prior to census day or to complete withdrawals.” So, keep your college experience on the right track by completing assignments and courses.

- Academic Dishonesty Statement

Academic dishonesty is prohibited and is considered a violation of the UTEP Handbook of Operating Procedures. It includes, but is not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, and collusion. Cheating may involve copying from or providing information to another student, possessing unauthorized materials during a test, or falsifying research data on laboratory reports. Plagiarism occurs when someone intentionally or knowingly represents the words or ideas of another person's as ones' own. And, collusion involves collaborating with another person to commit any academically dishonest act. Any act of academic dishonesty attempted by a UTEP student is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. Violations will be taken seriously and will be referred to the Dean of Students Office for possible disciplinary action. Students may be suspended or expelled from UTEP for such actions.

- Notice of Safe Assign: This course will utilize third party software that has the ability to automatically detect plagiarism on documents submitted for grading.
